Rai University, in a collaborative effort with the National Service Scheme (NSS), orchestrated a robust voter awareness campaign in Chaloda. Spearheaded by Sarpanch Shree Ranjeet Bhai Thakor, Shrimati Laxmiben S. Thakor, and Gramsabha member Shri Ashokbhai Prajapati, the campaign aimed to instill a sense of civic duty and responsibility among residents. Approximately 50 students took to the streets, conducting lively rallies and visiting households to educate and motivate individuals about the pivotal role of voting in a democracy.

Beyond mere rhetoric, the campaign provided tangible tools for engagement by distributing placards featuring Election Commission apps, facilitating easy access to crucial election updates. This multifaceted approach sought to empower citizens with knowledge and resources to make informed decisions during elections.

The guidance and support extended by local leaders were pivotal in navigating community dynamics and ensuring the campaign's effectiveness. Their endorsement not only lent credibility but also fostered trust and cooperation among residents, amplifying the impact of the initiative.

Ultimately, the campaign's success lay in its ability to transcend mere awareness-raising, fostering a culture of active participation and accountability in the democratic process. By empowering individuals and communities, it paved the way for a more vibrant and inclusive democracy in Chaloda.

Introduction

World Environment Day 2024 was organized by NSS Cell and Rai School of Sciences, Rai University, Ahmadabad. Environment Day celebrated with great enthusiasm highlighting the theme "Land Restoration, Desertification, and Drought Resilience." The event was centered around a tree plantation drive emphasizing the importance of restoring land and enhancing resilience against desertification and drought.

Theme and Importance

The theme for this year's World Environment Day, "Land Restoration, Desertification, and Drought Resilience," is crucial in the current global context. Desertification and drought are significant environmental challenges, impacting ecosystems, biodiversity and human livelihoods. Tree plantation is a practical and symbolic action to combat these issues promoting ecological balance and sustainability.

Venue and Participants

The celebration took place on the Rai University campus, providing a fitting backdrop for an event focused on environmental restoration. The participants included all faculty members, Heads of Departments, Deans, and students, demonstrating the university community's collective commitment to environmental stewardship.

No of Participants: 53

Guest of Honour

We were honoured to have Dr. Brijendra Singh Yadav, Registrar, Rai University as our guest of honour. Dr. Yadav shared his insights on the importance of land restoration and resilience-building efforts. His presence added significant value to the event, inspiring participants to actively engage in environmental conservation.

Event Highlights

Opening Ceremony

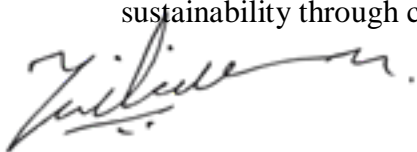

The event was inaugurated with a welcome speech by Ms. Jolly Patel, setting a positive tone for the day's activities. The significance of World Environment Day and the chosen theme, urging everyone to contribute to environmental protection and sustainability. Dr. Yadav delivered an impactful keynote address shedding light on the pressing issues of desertification and drought. He highlighted the role of tree plantation in mitigating these. His speech motivated the audience to take proactive steps towards environmental conservation.

Tree Plantation Drive

The tree plantation drive was the centerpiece of the celebration. Participants including faculty, Heads, Deans and students enthusiastically planted a variety of native tree species across the campus. The drive aimed to increase green cover, enhance biodiversity and contribute to the overall health of the campus ecosystem.

Conclusion

The Environment Day celebration at Rai University was a resounding success highlighting the critical theme of "Land Restoration, Desertification, and Drought Resilience." The participation of faculty, Heads, Deans and students along with the inspiring presence of Dr. Brijendra Singh Yadav made the event memorable and impactful. The tree plantation drive and associated activities not only raised awareness but also contributed to tangible environmental benefits. Rai University remains dedicated to promoting environmental conservation and sustainability through continued efforts and initiatives.

No. of NSS Volunteers Participated: 30

No. of faculties Participated: 20

No. of external Participated (if any): Nil

Objective:

- The main objective of the celebration is to highlight the public interest and educate the people about the population issues like benefits of family planning, gender equality, poverty, maternal health, human rights, etc.
- Aims to spread awareness not only about the increasing population and its impact on society, nations, and environment but also educating the public to control it.
- To combat the incoming verge of either disastrous overpopulation or catastrophic population collapse, calling to curtail or induce population growth, it must be understood that similar measures which have been executed in the past proved futile.
- To understand the ways to prevent over-population and save planet for future generation
- To curb the threat to a healthy society and provide a better and sustainable future for the upcoming generation, it is essential to create awareness and educate people about the risk associated with overpopulation.
- Promoting youth-friendly measures to prevent over-population impact.
- Acting as a reminder that over-population can lead to over consumption and encouraging public for family planning and thereby helps in protecting the planet.

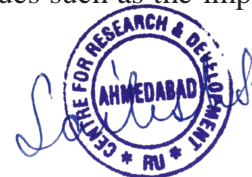

Benefits of attending the session:

There are more than seven billion people on earth right now, five billion day, which meant to acknowledge the date on which the world’s population reached an estimated five billion people, which supposedly happened on July 11 of that year. The life on Earth depends on the how humans treat or care the land and its resources. The main ideas behind conducting this session are:

- World population day intended to protect and empower youth of both genders and there role in protecting the environment.
- Aims to increase people's awareness on various population issues such as the importance of family planning, poverty, maternal health and human right.

- Importance to highlight the growing problems that come with a growing global population. Overpopulation is a crucial issue, especially considering that world resources are depleting at an unsustainable rate.
- Provides an opportunity to people are encouraged to take part in the event to know about population issues like importance of family planning towards the increasing population, gender equality, maternal and baby health, poverty, human rights, right to health at all levels.
- To understand that the major population related problem is man-made, which means the solution has to come from humans too.
- Understanding and by recognizing the challenges and opportunities presented by population dynamics, World Population Day serves as a platform for individuals to engage in discussions and take action, managing its natural resources sustainably, and taking urgent action on over-population, so that it can support the needs of present and future generations.

About the Event

World Population Day focuses on the urgency and importance of population issues. It was established by the United Nations Development Program (UNDP) in 1989. The World Population Day is observed every year on July 11 in order to raise awareness about the global population issues, including population control. The rising population trends affect economic development, employment, income distribution, poverty and social protections. They also affect efforts to ensure universal access to health care, education, housing, sanitation, water, food and energy. The day offers a chance to recognize that solution is achievable through problem solving, strong community involvement and co-operation at all levels. By recognizing the challenges and opportunities presented by population dynamics, World Population Day serves as a platform for individuals to engage in discussions and take action. Through this observance, the main motive is to promote understanding, collaboration, and innovative solutions to ensure a sustainable future for all countries. This year this day is celebrated by Rai University, Ahmedabad on 11th July by conducting an Art for Awareness activity session on “Our World, Our Future: Raising Awareness on Population Issues” coordinated by Ms. Jolly Patel (Assistant professor, Rai School of Sciences). Ms. Jolly Patel welcomed audience and delegates to the session and acknowledged the audience about the overpopulation issues and importance to gain insights about preventive measures with joint actions at all levels. The delegates took part in the session includes Dr. P. P Patel (Dean, Rai School of Agriculture), Dr. Rajesh Kumar Yadav (Assistant Director of Sport) Dr. Sandip Chandra (Convener, RU IIC), Mr. Veerendra Singh Nagoriya (COE, Rai University) and all faculty members from all the schools. Ms. Jolly Patel started the session with an explanation of positive aspect of population as individual’s personal choice and as assest to country. The importance of the day is also explained and the negative impact of population increase. A real time published data showing growing numbers of Gujarat, India and World population is also shown for depth of issues. A brief discussion of the various factors influencing population growth and the measures to be taken to control population growth also done. Explanation about the fact of overpopulation and its effect in Earth resources were also a noted in the session. A detailed view of overpopulation causes, effects and its possible solution also considered. An overview of their sources availability in present generation and trend of overconsumption cause to the future generation were also discussed. A takeaway point: Think wise, Do wise and Act smart is given to all audience to follow. Followed by this, the student participants is guided for art session. The session ended with the importance of family planning and various government initiatives to support the mission. The overall session accept responses from audience regarding different ideas, solutions and initiatives can help shape the future of our land and educating young generation to take action.
